

CHAIRMAN'S REPORT

Welcome to the autumn edition of the Eastcote Residents' Newsletter. We hope you find it interesting and a useful source of local information – please remember that our website is a further resource and has recently been upgraded. For our website address please see the bottom of this page.

Congratulations to the Friends of Eastcote House Gardens on their success in securing a grant from the Heritage Lottery Fund to restore and enhance this unique public amenity. A substantial amount of hard work has been undertaken by volunteers to raise funds and the ERA Committee are pleased to have been able to make a financial contribution to support this very worthwhile initiative. We look forward to taking advantage of this additional amenity in 2015.

Once again we wish to express our thanks to the 70 or so volunteer road stewards who distribute our Newsletter twice a year, collect subscriptions and, for many, provide a face-to-face contact point. We are always on the lookout for additional stewards – a few hours twice a year will suffice and you can make a valuable contribution to your local community. For further information please email ERA@eastcoteraco.uk

The desire to enhance Eastcote 'town centre' was raised within our spring newsletter and one can see new facilities being implemented to improve Northwood Hills and Ruislip Manor. Should Eastcote be next? The ERA would welcome the opportunity to work together with an Eastcote business forum to secure such improvements.

A message from Nick Hurd MP

Some constituents may have picked up on some comments attributed to me recently in the national media.

I was accused of attacking job seekers for ‘lacking grit’. I did no such thing and would never criticise young people looking for work in these very challenging times. My only interest is in how we can help them develop the broad range of skills that employers are looking for in the modern workplace. Survey after survey tells us the same thing. They are not just interested in academic qualifications. They cite people skills, self-reliance, teamwork, resilience, the ability to communicate well, and other key attributes. These are the so-called ‘soft skills’ that are increasingly important.

In a recent survey of employers, more than 60 per cent said that they did not feel school or college leavers are developing the self-management skills they need for work. My point was that we should listen to employers and encourage more young people to get involved in extracurricular activities that challenge them. These help to build confidence and important life skills. I cited the programme I am responsible for called National Citizen Service which almost 50,000 young people will go through this year, including several hundred from Hillingdon and Harrow. These programmes are helping a large expansion in apprenticeships and review of vocational training so that we can help more young people achieve their full potential.

On a separate note, some constituents will be interested to know how I voted on the key Syria issue. It is a horrible situation, and there are no good options but my bottom line was that we cannot tolerate the use of chemical weapons and the international community has to stand firm. There is a full statement on my website - www.nickhurd.com - where residents can also catch up on what else their MP is up to.

I hope everyone had a wonderful summer and please feel free to contact me if I can be of any assistance.

Nick Hurd, MP

CONSERVATION IN EASTCOTE

A victory for Eastcote House

The Friends of Eastcote House Gardens (FEHG) have had a very busy year so far. The Stage 2 application to the Heritage Lottery Fund (HLF) was submitted in February. Members of the HLF panel made a site visit in late April; a large volunteer group attended an extra session, with the marvellous result that Eastcote House Gardens (EHG) was awarded a £1.3 million grant from the HLF.

So many people deserve accolades for all the hard work put into this project over the last five years: the FEHG, all our supporters, local businesses, local groups, local schools, ward councillors, MPs and council officers. EHG can now take its rightful place as the heart of Eastcote.

This grant will secure the future of these much loved gardens for generations to come. The FEHG are fundraising to meet the match funding target set by the HLF of £150,000: £125,000 will be in volunteer hours and the remaining £25,000 in cash. We have reached the halfway mark, thanks to a recent donation of £1,000 from the Eastcote Residents' Association and a further £1,000 from an anonymous donor. Full details of the project and a timeline of works will be issued as soon as definite details are known. Please see our website www.eastcotehousegardens.weebly.com

The Vintage Tea Gardens season started in May, with the dedication of the Sheila Liberty Bridge. The footbridge across the River Pinn, which links EHG to Long Meadow, was dedicated to the memory of Sheila Liberty. The Leader of the Council, Councillor Ray Puddifoot, gave a special dispensation for the naming. He recognised the tremendous service Sheila had given to the Eastcote community and the special place she has in our hearts. Usually a person has to be deceased ten years before a road, building, bridge, etc. can be named after them. The bridge was formally dedicated by Councillor Michael Markham, Mayor of Hillingdon.

The Mayor presenting the Hinman Shield

In July, the Hinman Shield was presented to Warrender School for their support of many events at EHG, including conducting and presenting a survey which was sent to the HLF, to show the extent of local involvement at the gardens. The original shield is now full, so Jay of Forget Me Not, Field End Road, has kindly sponsored a new shield, in the shape of a Tudor rose, which complements the Tudor heritage of Eastcote.

Other highlights of the Vintage Tea Garden season have been a classic car rally, St Lawrence Players performing Punch and Judy, a dog show, lots of stalls and workshops and not forgetting delicious homemade cakes and cream teas by Vintage Tea 2 You.

Throughout July and August EHG was judged for London in Bloom, It's Your Neighbourhood, Park of the Year and Britain in Bloom. Results are expected in late September and mid-October; see our website for results.

Long Meadow

Long Meadow is now cared for by the FEHG Countryside Conservation group, led by Steve Place. The group holds work days once a month, and weekly butterfly counts. All the trees have been identified and the veteran trees have been registered with the Woodland Trust. The young elms have survived their first winter and are growing well. Eastcote Conservation Panel is a stakeholder in the Colne Catchment Action Plan, and a grant has now been made from the Mayor of London's Big Green Fund of £20,000 for improvement works to the meadow and river. All details of future improvements will be posted on our website.

Friends of Pinn Meadows

It's déjà vu on Pinn Meadows. For the third consecutive year, Eastcote Hockey Club has withdrawn its planning application for a fenced and floodlit Astro turf pitch and car park on Pinn Meadows, just before it was due to be heard by the North Planning Committee. Yet again the planning officer had recommended refusal, yet again thousands of residents had signed a petition objecting to the development and yet again Eastcote Hockey Club have promised to re-submit in due course.

The great news for residents is that a successful planning application is further away than ever and as well as the planning officer's recommended refusal there were objections from the council's Flood Officer, Tree Officer, Sustainability Officer, Highways Officer and the Policy and Enforcement Planning team. Objections to the planning application were also received from the Environment Agency, Natural England, The Woodland Trust, Sport England, The Ramblers Association, The Open Spaces Society, Eastcote Conservation Panel, Ruislip Conservation Panel, Ruislip Residents' Association, Nick Hurd MP and numerous other residents' groups. The Hockey Club's grant offers have also been rescinded and, following the London Borough of Hillingdon's confirmation that their £150,000 grant is no longer on offer, the Greater London Authority have also confirmed that they have withdrawn their £120,000 grant offer too. So is that the end of the matter?

Unfortunately not. The Hockey Club have been on Pinn Meadows recently to conduct a bat and river survey, no doubt to support their next planning application submission later in the year. Obviously, the £200,000 cash in their bank account which has accumulated since the current Astroturf pitch was built in 1997, and which has been supplemented by annual Council grants and a 91 per cent Council rent subsidy, needs spending, but Pinn Meadows is not and never will be the right location for another Astroturf pitch!

In order to permanently protect the area, Friends of Pinn Meadows (FoPM) submitted a petition to the Council signed by over 5,000 residents and supported by Eastcote Residents' Association, Ruislip Residents' Association and local councillors, requesting that the Council designate Pinn Meadows as a Village Green. However, the petition was refused as the Council felt that there was already sufficient protection from its own policies and ownership of the land. Let's hope so!

In other news, the Pinn Meadows Chrysalis project was completed this summer and includes new footpaths, benches, bins, bird and bat boxes and parking bollards. The completion was marked with the unveiling of a fantastic new information board highlighting the history of the meadows and its wildlife species. FoPM also held a Big Picnic this summer as part of the nationwide 'Big Lunch' event to get communities together. As well as the food and games, Ruislip Fire Crew also brought their fire engine down for the children (and adults!) to play on. FoPM also recently played host for the Council to the London in Bloom and Britain in Bloom judges who visited the meadows and were impressed with the amount of community involvement. To reinforce this, the Council's Green Spaces team organised scythe-training workshops on the meadows and FoPM members are now looking forward to being able to demonstrate their expertise at this ancient art at their future working parties.

You can find out more about their work at www.fopm.org.

Morford Way Conservation Area

The appraisal of the MWCA is still ongoing. A recommendation was put forward that more of the town centre should be included in the conservation area. The core buildings are still unchanged from the 1930s and are a fine example of a 'Metroland Garden Suburb'. This recommendation has been accepted in principle, but does mean more preparation for the appraisal document.

Esso Garage High Road Eastcote

The application to close the garage and erect four, four-bedroom houses has caused concern. The garage is well used and is the only one in Eastcote, the next nearest being in Pinner and South Ruislip. The current proposal is for part of the land; there is no indication of the owner's intention for the rest of the site. Residents have lodged petitions against the application and the conservation panel has also objected. Among other reasons, it is considered that this development would be detrimental to the River Pinn corridor.

Former betting shop High Road Eastcote

Although not a listed building, this is within the Eastcote Village Conservation Area. As it is also joined into the Old Barn, a Grade II listed building, listed building consent is therefore required before any repair work can progress.

The Borough Enforcement Officer has caused work to stop and the owners have been asked to apply for Listed Building consent. At the time of writing no such application has been made.

Parks and open spaces

A great deal of volunteer work goes into keeping our parks and open spaces clean and pleasant places to visit. The larger parks have their own Friends groups but even small areas have their champions. Chris Groom (ERA President) keeps the area near the Tudor Lodge Hotel in good order. Three years ago there was a big tidy-up by the 4th Eastcote Brownies and the conservation panel, and bulbs were planted. Chris has been keeping this area looking lovely ever since. There must be many other unsung heroes keeping Eastcote smiling; if you know of any please let me know.

Warrender Park

Items of outdoor gym equipment have been installed and are proving very popular. Several areas of 'urban meadow' have been planted and are a treat to the eyes.

Funding for some more spring bulbs has been granted from the Ward budget; our thanks go to the ward councillors for supporting this project. There will be a working party organised this autumn to plant the bulbs for spring colour.

Bessingby, Cavendish and Pine Gardens parks

The many improvements to the parks made by the Friends group, in conjunction with the Green Spaces department, have brought rewards; they are now the proud owners of a Green Flag Award. Congratulations to all.

Changes to the Planning Law

There are continuing changes being made to Planning Law by the National Government, the latest being part of the Growth and Infrastructure Bill. Councillor Eddie Lavery, Chairman of the North Planning Committee and the Major Applications Planning Committee, has issued guidance on the new changes for which we are very grateful.

All these changes take more decisions away from our elected councillors and the Planning Department, and regrettably both always receive the blame for those decisions we consider appalling. For instance, the application for the former garden centre at 216 Field End Road was refused by the North Planning Committee for all the reasons we consider relevant, but the Government Department, The Planning Inspectorate, considered it was 'just fine' to have 11 flats without parking facilities, with all deliveries and collections for both shop and flats at the front of the building, on a hill, near traffic lights and a pedestrian crossing.

Update on 150 Field End Road, Initial House

The site has been purchased by the property developer, London Square, who are a local company, based in Ickenham, and who are responsible for the apartment development in Pembroke Road, Ruislip.

London Square has planning permission, as the Receiver's appeal against the Council's refusal of the last application was upheld earlier this year. This has allowed them to start work quickly and the rear of the site is already being cleared. The £15 million project is due to be completed in 2015 and there will be 42 one, two and three-bedroom apartments in a landscaped setting, accessed via a private gate, and with underground parking.

A message from the Station Commander of RAF Northolt Group Captain Andy Bacon

As Station Commander of RAF Northolt one of the things I am most conscious of is the very close proximity of the Station to the local community. Most RAF bases are located in the countryside, miles from the nearest major built-up area but we are situated in the heart of the community on the western edge of our Nation's capital. This brings with it many challenges as well as many opportunities.

The challenges include keeping disruption to our neighbours to the minimum while maintaining our operations. To that end we restrict our routine operating hours to a much greater extent than many other airfields. Despite a planned increase in the number of commercial aircraft using Northolt, these opening hours of 8am to 8pm Monday to Friday, 8am to 3pm on Saturday, and noon to 7pm on Sundays will remain unchanged. Of course we do occasionally have essential military and government activity outside these hours but we keep this to a minimum.

One example was the recent deportation of Abu Qatada. This required my staff to open the airfield for a departure at 2.45am. Another example was last year when Typhoon fast jets and several helicopters were based here in support of the air security plan for the Olympic and Paralympic Games. We also hosted hundreds of additional servicemen and women who were brought in to work at the Olympic park. I am grateful for the support and understanding of the local community which accepted the disturbance resulting from these activities.

Many Northolt personnel worked long and unsocial hours to help deliver a safe and successful Games and I am delighted that the Station was awarded the prestigious Stainforth Trophy. This award recognises the important operational role of the Station last year, as well as our continued high level of support to operations in Afghanistan, charity fundraising, heritage conservation, and community engagement.

The opportunities of commanding a Station with a wide range of different units, of all three Services, are immense and I am keen to encourage close engagement with the community to offer some of our skills to local schools and societies. Wherever possible we will open up to allow you access to our events and facilities.

I know that many residents enjoy seeing some of the heritage aircraft which visit the Station from time to time and, with our Centenary approaching in March 2015, we are already planning a series of commemorative events. In the meantime we have a real hidden treasure in the former No 11 Group Bunker at Uxbridge. This is from where the bulk of the aircraft in the Battle of Britain were controlled and the Operations Room is set up as it was on 15 September 1940. Visits can be booked through the curator, Dan Stirland, on 01895 251303 and I urge you to visit if you have not already done so. Our own Sector Operations Room at Northolt is in the process of being restored and should be completed by the time of the Centenary celebrations.

Thank you for your continued support for the personnel of RAF Northolt and I hope to meet many of you during my time as Station Commander.

Group Captain Andy Bacon ADC MA BSc RAF

Eastcote Art Society

Eastcote Art Society celebrated our 35th birthday this year and at our summer exhibition at the Cow Byre in Ruislip, the deputy mayor and local councillor, Catherine Dann, helped us celebrate the continued success of the Society. Given the fact that many local art societies have closed, we are proud of our inclusive and open range of activities. Let us look forward to the next 35 years.

The Art Society has now set up a website www.eastcoteartsociety.co.uk covering all its activities, including this and next year's programme of events as well as images of some of our members' work. This enables any local residents to keep in touch with our activities and, should they feel like attending a demonstration, look up the details of the next event. We hope this will help communication among members, but also allow the general public to view the activities of the Society and maybe come and join us.

The website contains contact details; however, for more information on the Society or the local arts scene call Graham Pellow, Chairman, on 020 8582 1522.

Don't let a disability be a bar to playing sport

Bessingby Park Bowls Club, like many clubs, occasionally has some members who have a disability but who are determined to overcome them and still continue to play the game of bowls. Bessingby has such a person - Eric Peters.

Eric joined Bessingby Park Bowls Club following his retirement; he had in earlier years been a keen follower of, and participant in, several sports, in particular football and cricket (playing both when he was serving with the RAF in Egypt during his National Service). After he left the RAF played cricket for the BBC at Caversham and for Brent Council. Today he avidly follows the test matches on his radio during breaks in the bowls roll ups and matches.

Bowls seemed to follow as a natural progression after Eric retired and entered the 'slowing down' phase of his life. Some eight years ago, however, he unfortunately lost much of the sight in one eye due to macular degeneration followed by gradually diminishing sight in the other eye, necessitating him having to give up driving and most of his reading. Did this prevent Eric from participating in bowls? Not at all. His bowls playing continued unabated. He is guaranteed to be at the twice-weekly roll ups and often plays in matches against other teams. Playing bowls continues to give him much pleasure and healthy exercise. His skill has remained to such an extent that on many occasions other players who felt sure they would be victorious are heard to say, "You seem to be able to see just as well as I can".

How does Eric manage to play when he can't see? Well the answer is simple. He uses a small pair of binoculars to locate the jack and, determine the line on the green his bowl will follow and a fellow bowler will stand over the jack when Eric bowls to aid him as the jack is much too small to be seen by his peripheral vision. He uses the binoculars to track the progress of his bowl.

Eric is a shining example of someone with a significant disability who has persevered and not let his sight problems defeat him. Anyone with a disability should have the confidence to play bowls. There is much satisfaction and a real sense of achievement to be gained.

Bessingby Bowls Club offers companionship not only through its own members but also through the members of the clubs it plays in matches. It is a friendly club and invites you to join them, where you can meet other people, get exercise and play this interesting and entertaining sport. Both sexes and all ages are welcome.

So, what's stopping you? Contact the Secretary, Jack Odell, on 020 8845 1469 and he will welcome you to the club. Free coaching sessions are provided.

The new season starts in April.

Outstanding results from Northwood School

Northwood School is delighted to announce its best ever GCSE results. 97 per cent of Year 11 students gained five or more A*- C grades, with an impressive 73 per cent achieving five or more A*- C grades including English and Mathematics.

Both outcomes are significantly above the averages achieved by all schools nationally and represent the fifth successive year of improvement in results at Northwood.

Deputy Headteacher Mark Anderson, who oversees student achievement at the school, commented: "These outstanding results affirm Northwood's status as a high-performing, academically successful school. As delighted as I am with them, they come as no surprise because they reflect the outstanding teaching and learning that I see on a daily basis throughout the year."

Headteacher Graeme Atkins said: "Our students benefit from the fact that we are a relatively small secondary school; therefore we can devote the one-to-one attention that enables them to achieve as well as they do. We are ambitious for them and they in turn are highly motivated to succeed."

Project Killdeer

The Metropolitan Police Service (MPS) is currently running Project Killdeer which aims to raise awareness of illegal street collectors and attempts to ensure that charitable contributions reach their intended causes. An estimated £147 million annually is lost to charities through fraud.

Be aware that all street collectors' buckets or tins must display the name of the charity and be securely sealed. The collector must be in possession of written authority from the charity and have an MPS permit; if not, they are committing an offence. Collections are restricted to certain days of the month and each charity can collect only once a year in any specific local authority area (railway stations are subject to different legislation). If you think a charity street collector is committing an offence, please contact your local policing team.

Details of current permits issued by the MPS charities office are published at www.met.police.uk/charities. This website also covers other types of charitable collections. In most cases the charities will be registered; this can be checked at www.charitycommission.gov.uk.
